LOW CALLS FOR A TILDEN.

FROM BROOKLYN, HE THINKS, SUCH A LEADER MUST COME.

Beviews Tammany's Record in Oper Speech, Comparing Murphy to Tweed and McClellan to Van Wyck-Grout and Fornes, He Says. Are No Use to Fusion.

In spite of a dismal accompaniment of wind and rain the fusion fight opened in Brooklyn last night with a rousing meeting in the Clermont avenue rink in that borough. It was addressed by Mayor Low, Borough President Swanstrom, Frederic W. Hinrichs, who has taken the place of Edward M. Grout as the fusion nominee for Comptroller, and City Chamberlain Elgin R. L. Gould. Twenty-five hurdred people crowded into the auditorium and by their cheers sshowed that there is no lack of enthusiasm for the fusion cause in the

When Mayor Low and his party reached the rink there was scarcely a vacant seat in the place. The rink itself had been elaborately decorated with flags and bunting, and in every seat was a small American

Time and again during the evening the enthusiasm ran so high that the audience erose as one man and waved the flags as they cheered, making a stirring spectacle. Mayor Low was received as he had not been received in Brooklyn at any time during the campaign of two years ago

Whatever his popularity may be in other parts of the city, it is certainly secure in Brooklyn, and he has reason to be proud of the welcome his old townsmen gave to him last night. When the Mayor came in shortly after & o'clock, accompanied by Mr. Hinrichs and Dr. Gould, the band struck up "Hail to the Chief," and vainly tried to make staelf heard above the roar of welcome which the crowd sent at the Mayor.

When the applause subsided somewhat and the crowd saw that the tall, slender, gray haired man with the Mayor was Mr. Hinrichs, who jumped in at the last moment to take a place on the fusion ticket, made vacant by a circumstance with which the Brooklynites showed by their hissing of the name of Mr. Grout that they had no sympathy, there was repeated applause for him as well as for the Mayor. Mayor Low spoke as follows:

she name of Mr. Grout that they had no sympathy, there was repeated applications of this as well as for the Mayor.

Mayor Low spoke as follows:

Mayor Low spoke as for the profession of the spoke as follows:

M'CLELLAN AND VAN WYCK. M'OLELLAN AND VAN WYCK.

In order to understand the nature and gravity of the danger, it is only necessary to consider the character of its nominee for Mayor, Mr. McClellan, and the circumstances of his nomination. Against his personal character no word of reproach can be spoken, but his conception of his obligations to the nominating power is the most dangerous possible. It is precisely that of Mayor Van Wyck, and how dangerous it proved to be in his case—not only to his own reputation but also to the city—all the world knows. Mr. McClellan appreciates that all his preferment has come to him through the favor of the leaders of Tammany hiall, and he recognizes his obligations by obedience to their orders. Let us see how far this has carried him.

Two years ago, when the city was burning their orders. Let us see now far this has carried him.

Two years ago, when the city was burning with indignation at the evils which had been nurtured under Mayor Van Wyck. Mr. McClellan used these words: "We meet here to-night to indorse the Democratic administration that has been presided over so ably and so successfully by that unswerving and fearless Democrat, Robert A. Van Wyck. We have no apologies to offer. We have nothing for which to apologize. We have done well. Ours is the credit and ours the henor."

dene well. Ours is the credit and ours the heap."

The nomination this year of the man who said that is a challenge thrown in the face of the city by Tammany Hall. It amounts to a demand that the city shall admit that the Red Light district, with all its horrors, was something to be proud of; that the conversion of the police force from a force the object of which is to enforce the law into an organization for the systematic sale of law was a thing to be commended, and that, in general, the mercenary spirit which breeds dishonesty in the public service is a spirit to be fostered and sustained by public approval, instead of being visited with the utmest condemnation.

THE MAYOR THE CONTROLLING POWER.

THE MAYOR THE CONTROLLING POWER.

No nomination within the range of possibility, unless it had been the renomination of sizyor Van Wyck himself, could have raised the isaue so clearly. On the one hand you are invited to elect a Mayor who saw nothing to condemn in any of these things, and on the other you have the opportunity to reclect a Mayor under whom an end has been put to them all. Let me remind you that it is the Mayor and not either the Comptroller or the President of the Board of Aldermen whose action is decisive as to all of these matters. When, under the last Tammany edministration, a Comptroller from Brooklyn found himself opposed to commercialism in politics, he was able, with the help of some of his colleagues, to put an end to the Ramapo steal; but the Red Light district grew up right before his face; appointments and promotions on the police force and on the fireforce were the subject of bargain and sale before his syes; the legitimate business of the city was subject to blackmail, and the illegitimate business paid tribute, and he was utterly unable to prevent it.

In other words, the character of the administration as it relates to all of these things is determined by the Mayor, for he appoints the Police Commissioner, the Fire Com-THE MAYOR THE CONTROLLING POWER.

The only exception to this statement is to be found in the important duties devolved upon the Borough Presidents. These gentlemen have to do with the initiation of local improvements, with the paving of streets, the construction of sewers, the care of buildings and the like. In the presence of your honered Borough President, Mr. Swanstrom, whose administration in all these regards has been so singularly successful. MUERPHY AND THE DOCK BOARD.

ON TAMMANYIZING BROOKLYN.

BROOKLYN DEMOCRAT SAYS

THERE'S NOTHING IN IT.

Story About a Branch Tammany Head-quarters Across the River Pronounced Nonsensical by a Man Who Thinks This Came From the Auction Reem.

"Who starts all these stories printed every other day that Tammany is to have a branch headquarters in Brooklyn during the Mayoralty fight?" asked an important Brooklyn Democrat last night.

"There is no truth in such a statement."

I ask you, also, to notice the fate that has befallen the Tammany committee of five that was appointed at the instance of Mr. Croker to investigate the conditions of vice that was appointed at the instance of Mr. Croker to investigate the conditions of vice that were brought to the attention of the community by Bishop Potters letter to Mayor Van Wyck. Mr. Nivon, who was chairman of the committee, retired from the leadership of Tammany because he said he could no longer hold it with self-respect. Fvery other member of the committee has been deposed from his place of honor and responsibility in the organization. Will any one, in the face of facts like these, have the hardihood to say that Tammany Hall has changed and that it can now be safely trusted with the good name and good fame of the municipality?

It is not for me to say what ought to be the attitude of the Democrats of Brooklyn to the evident purpose of Tammany to destroy their organization. It remains for them to determine whether they will placidly accept the annihilation that awaits them if Tammany succeeds in electing its Mayor, or whether they will throw all of their force into the effort to maintain their autonomy. So great a Democrat as Tilden took the platform openly against Tweed and all his infunities. He threw himself with all his power into the effort to regenerate Tammany Hall; but I never heard that he lent his support to the election of a Mayor, two years after the overthrow of Tweed, who had said of the Tweed régime that the Democracy had nothing to apologize for that; on the contrary, the credit was theirs. Human life is more valuable than dollars. The virtue of your children is more precious than party ascendancy.

Has Tilden no successors in the Brooklyn Democracy who will openly fight against the restoration of the abominable conditions which Mr. McCellan eulogized two years ago, until there is no longer danger of their return?

"There is no truth in such a statement," continued this important Brooklyn Democrat, "and nobody knows it better than Hugh McLaughlin, Mr. Shevlin and their friends; and yet I am sorry to say that Mr.

Shevlin especially has given countenance to a report of that character. "No good can be accomplished in this campaign by tolerating such nonsensical political reports, for the reason that Murphy of Tammany Hall is not quite a fool, and the last thing he would do would be to start a Tammany branch here in Brooklyn, when the Brooklyn Citizen and all the friends of Mr. McLaughlin and Mr. Shevlin are talking about the attempts of Murphy to "Tammanyiz" Brooklyn. "I do not care to be too severe on Mr. Shevlin or on Mr. Shevlin's friends, but the stories about starting a Tammany branch over here in Brooklyn did not come from Timothy L. Woodruff, the Republican chieftain, and after investigation it looks as if they did come from the auction room in Willoughby street." Senator McCarren's strength in his present antagonism of Mr. McLaughlin, it is said, comes from the fact that he has always been regular, and that his district, the Democracy of Kings county, while on the other hand, Mr. MoLaughiin lives in the First Assembly district, which does not elect a Democrat on any ticket does not elect a Democrat on any ticket once in fifteen years, Mr. Shevlin and Mr. York are living in the Eleventh district, strongly Republican, and John L. OCTOBER CROP REPORT.

The Indicated Yields of Corn and Spring Wheat Larger Than on Sept. 1.

The Government crop report for Oct. 1 issued yesterday, gives the condition of corn as 80.8, compared with 80.1. On the basis of the condition of corn given by this report, and using the figures last furnished by the Department of Agriculture as to the area sown, 89,800,000 acres. the indicated yield of corn is 2,307,860,000 bushels. This compares with an indicated yield by the Government report of Sept. 1 of 2,289,900,000 bushels, and an indicated yield by the Aug. 1 report of 2,245,000,000 bushels. It also compares with an actual corn crop last year of 2,523,048,000 bushels, and an actual yield in 1901, when there was a partial crop failure, of 1,522,519,891 bushels. On the basis of the spring wheat yield per acre—14.1 bushels—reported by the department the indicated crop of spring wheat is 248,501,000 bushels, which compares wheat is 2-30,000 bushess, which compares with a yield indicated by the crop report of Aug. 1, the last previous Government crop report to refer to spring wheat, of 239,872,000 bushess. The actual yield of spring wheat last year was 258,274,342 bushess, while in 1901 it was 289,625,717 bushess.

No report is made by the Department No report is made by the Department this month as to winter wheat, but, assuming the Aug. 1 indication as unchanged, the total indicated wheat crop is 659,028,000 bushels, which compares with 669,841,000 bushels, the total crop indicated by the Government return of Sept. 1., when the combined wheat condition and yield per acre—spring and winter—was reported. The actual total wheat crop last year was 670,063,000 bushels, and the actual crop in 1901 was 748,460,218 bushels. 1901 was 748,460,218 bushels.
